

AIR BORN

A BEDROOM BLESSED WITH A BIRD'S-EYE VIEW PROVIDES THE PERFECT OPPORTUNITY TO REVEL IN SOME SUN-KISSED RESPITE.

THE DESIGN TEAM:

Interior Design / Kendall Wilkinson,
Kendall Wilkinson Design
Architecture / Ken Linsteadt,
Ken Linsteadt Architects
Home Builder / Glen Sherman,
Van Acker Construction Associates
Landscape Architecture / Ron Lutsko Jr. and Terri McFarland, Lutsko Associates, Landscape

Waking up to face the dawn becomes much more tempting in this master bedroom and balcony, radiant with warm hues and plush furnishings—all curated by Kendall Wilkinson for a Bay Area home. 1 / Peace of Mind: For a little solitude, add an extension off your bedroom with an enclosed balustrade that provides privacy while allowing you to enjoy the open air. Here, a Paola Lenti sofa from Dzine makes the balcony equally as snug as the interiors. 2 / Shadow Play: Cast a striking outline against the sky with chic fenestration. A modernized French door looks glam with dark Colonial-style grids that offer an unexpected break to the room's lightness. 3 / Wild Card: Take a brief style departure from your interiors with contrasting statement pieces on your terrace. In an otherwise subdued bedroom, these vivid yellow ottomans and a chair, also by Paola Lenti, contribute a welcome flash of color. 4 / Felt Sense: A little texture on a classic white wall invites an additional dose of dimension in natural light. Covered in milky plaster, the bedroom walls have a linen-like quality that softens the sunshine.